jottaContemporary is pleased to present an exhibition exploring the relationship between aestheticism and corruption, where the enchantment of decadence reveals undertones of perverse animal instinct and deviant beauty.

Drawing inspiration from the themes of a classic Victorian fiction by Oscar Wilde, the group show interrogates 'the artist as creator of beautiful things' where 'vice and virtue are the artist's materials'. Spectators fueling their aesthetic urges for 'surface and symbol' in the upper Rockwell will discover hidden below the surface, in the Lower Rockwell, a complex and cautionary tale of exceptional beauty.
